Declaration of Conformity with the General Data Protection Regulation

The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) has applied since May 25, 2018. It protects the personal data of people in the European Economic Area, and every organisation that processes that data must comply with it, wherever it is based.

Chill Media Labs S.R.L. owns and runs Modula. Protecting personal data has always been a priority for us, and we invest in the infrastructure and security behind it. We work with an expert in personal data protection and internet law to keep our activities in line with these requirements. The personal information you enter on our platform remains your data.

How we prepared for GDPR

- We analysed how we process personal data, and we identified and fixed every case that didn't meet the regulation's conditions.
- We ran an external audit of our processes and of how we communicate with clients and partners, to check that the personal data we process is stored and handled securely and confidentially.
- We made sure our employees understand the rules and pay special attention to the data they work with.
- We checked that the service providers with access to personal data have done what GDPR requires of them.
- We created internal procedures and trained our staff, so that our customers' rights are fully respected.

How we keep it up

We keep working on the security of personal data, and on being able to prove it at any moment. We audited the computer systems that store personal data and we keep improving their security. We are prepared to detect a security breach and to tell you promptly if one happens.

Your rights

- Access and portability. You can ask for the information we store about you and your history with our service.
- Correction. You can have your personal data corrected.
- Deletion. You can ask us to delete all or part of your personal data. Deleting it can end the service we provide you, for technical reasons. Invoice details stay with us for 10 years, as fiscal law requires.
- Complaint. You can file a complaint with the National Authority for the Supervision of Personal Data Processing (ANSPDCP).

To use any of these rights, write to hello@wp-modula.com.

Who else handles your data

We share personal data with the service providers that help us run Modula, and we don't sell it. Our Privacy Policy lists these providers and what each one can access.
